A couple of years ago the Obama Administration said it would put solar panels on the White House.

So far, they haven't followed through. Now is the time to do so.

Americans of all political stripes support solar in overwhelming numbers. Most Americans also want a more united America.

So, President Obama, congratulations on your re-election! Now, let's get to work on bringing America together again.

One of the best ways to do that is to lead by example: Put those solar panels up on the White House. And get to work on growing solar even more than we have in the past four years.

Americans want you to lead us and unite us.

What are you waiting for?
